

Chaplaincy Central Copyright Policy

Overview

1. You, your school or the organisation you work for, are free to use any of the material in the resources section for your own use without charge and without having to acknowledge Chaplaincy Central. Most of the resources have been submitted by many different people who have given permission for them to be shared in this way and our hope is that they will equip you in your work as a chaplain.

However, if you want to republish anything you see on this web site there are some copyright or licensing restrictions.

None of this is intended to limit your capacity to be inspired by an idea and to make something even more amazing from it. Ideas can't be copyrighted, bought, sold or stolen and you may well recognise a few of the ideas wrapped up in some of the resources here. What this policy is preventing is people passing off as theirs an idea that has been transformed into a finished resource through someone else's work.

Copyright

2. Most of this web site and its contents (including, without limitation, the text, artwork, photographs, images, music, audio material, video material and audio-visual material) are copyright, either of Chaplaincy Central or of the original contributor.

Creative Commons

3.1 The exception is that some content in the resources section is licensed for use under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International licence. This basically means that if you want to share and adapt this material you can do so subject to some basic conditions set out in section 7 below.

3.2 Content licensed in this way will be marked with this symbol:

In detail

Copyright

4 With the exception of some content in the resources section all content posted on this site is subject to copyright, either of Chaplaincy Central or of the original contributor.

5.1 Photographs and other graphics or images are either the copyright of Chaplaincy Central or of the original contributors who have given us permission to use them here.

5.2 Please do not copy photographs or images from this web site unless you have asked us first and received prior written consent.

6.1 Copyright law allows you to republish reasonable portions of the content of this website (subject to 5.2) as long as they are made available free of charge and for non-commercial purposes and are attributed to Chaplaincy Central.

6.2 The portion of the website being republished must not be changed or edited in such a way that it modifies the content of the website or presents the portion being reproduced in a false light.

6.3 Please do not republish a substantial portion of this website unless you have asked us first and received prior written consent.

Creative Commons

7.1 Some of the content of this web site, for example the case studies and resources, is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International licence. This is to prevent other people from copying and benefitting commercially from the content that has been offered freely.

7.2 Content licensed in this way will be marked with this symbol:

7.3 This means that if you want to republish or share any of these resources with others beyond the school or organisation you work with you must give appropriate credit to Chaplaincy Central and you, or any third party, must not do this for commercial purposes.

7.4 You may adapt, transform or build on the resource but if you republish it or share it with others you must do so under the same Creative Commons licence.

Infringement

8. If you spot any material on this web site that you believe infringes your or any other person's copyright, please report this to us.

Contributors

9.1 In contributing case studies or any resource material to Chaplaincy Central you are deemed to have agreed to publication electronically or in print under the copyright terms in this document.

9.2 Where copyright for any item remains with you in submitting this content you grant Chaplaincy Central perpetual and royalty-free permission to use, edit and publish it electronically or in print.

9.3 Copyright for any photographs you send us remains with you but in submitting them you grant Chaplaincy Central perpetual and royalty-free permission to post the images on the web site or to use them in publicity or promotional material, both electronic and printed.

9.4 If you send us content for inclusion as a resource, and unless specifically agreed otherwise (see 9.2), we will assume that you grant permission to Chaplaincy Central to use edit and publish the content on the web site or to use it in publicity or promotional material, both electronic and printed, under the terms of a Creative Commons 4.0 by-nc-sa licence.

9.5 In submitting any content for inclusion on the Chaplaincy Central web site you warrant that there is nothing in it that infringes the rights of any third parties.
